Cowley District

Baseball League

Cowley, April 28.—The final arrangements for the Cowley District Baseball League have been made. The league is three-cornered and is composed of teams from Lundbreck, River and Cowley. The schedule is as follows:

Cowley, at River, May 10.
River, at Lundbreck, May 17.
Lundbreck, at Cowley, May 24.
River, at Cowley, May 31.
Lundbreck, at River, June 7.
Cowley, at Lundbreck, June 14.
The above is to be repeated in the same order commencing on June 21, having a game every Saturday until the end. The games are to start at 6 p.m. sharp, unless other hours are chosen.

agreeable to both teams playing.

The local team appear to be hoodooed this season. Last year's pitcher, Walsh, is playing for Lundbreck, leaving only Crawford to do all the twirling. Friday last Crawford had the misfortune to cut off the end of the index finger of the left hand. This accident will keep him from playing ball until well on in the season.

The ball club's annual dance came off on Friday night, and was a huge success. The members of the club tender their thanks to Will McKay, Gilbert Drewry, Charles Murdoch, and Wilbert Fortier for their untiring service in connection with the dance, and those ladies who supplied the supper.

Council Meeting

Fire Hall Question Again Discussed

The regular meeting of the Blairmore council was held on Monday night last. Mayor Lyon, Councillors McLeod, Sinclair, Drain, Brisco and Hinds being present.

After the minutes of previous meeting had been adopted, communications were read from Spitzer, Rourke & Co., Toledo, Ohio, and U. H. Burgess & Co., Toronto, re debentures.

An agreement has been entered into with the latter for the sale of $15,000 worth of waterworks debentures at 87, with accrued interest to date. J. F. Spalding, of Vancouver, who contemplates a cycle trip from coast to coast, desired to sell the town a page of a descriptive booklet he purposed writing on his proposed travel. The little page could be called the town's, together with a copy gratis, for the simple sum of one hundred and fifty dollars. The atmosphere of the council chamber grew rather chill when this communication was read, but the document was immediately accorded a place on a file in a dark corner.

W. J. Budd & Co., of Calgary desired to enter into an agreement for the lighting of the town, offering to install an entirely independent equipment which would ensure a continuous good service. Secretary was instructed to reply, advising what steps were already being taken for improving the service.

A memorandum agreement was received from the C. P. R. respecting the opening up of the Ninth Avenue crossing. The agreement called for the opening of Ninth Avenue and the closing of Eleventh Avenue crossings, and that it be understood that should either the C. P. R. or the town require that Ninth Avenue be closed at any time the Eleventh Avenue crossing should be re-opened, or vice versa. Supt. Harshaw stated that if the town desired to have Ninth Avenue opened a gang of men would be placed on the job of grading the Company's part of the work.

Copy of letter sent by the secretary to the Rocky Mountain Cement Co., regarding the poor light service and desiring to know whether or not the Company intended to continue or improve the service, also the reply, were read. The Company stated that two new boilers had been ordered and would shortly be put in position, and that their installation would mean an assurance of good lights for the town in future.

The following accounts were read: Peter Saradi $36.00; L. Milare $10.50; B. Sarada $9.00; Western Municipal News $10.00; Post Office $16.00; Union of Alberta Municipalities $10.00; F. W. Doubt $9.00; R. Smallwood $2.00; Dawson & Green $20.00; West Canadian Colliers $3.50. Brisco-Hinds—That Mayor and Secretary be instructed to complete the agreement with the C. P. R. for the closing of Eleventh Avenue crossing and opening of Ninth Avenue.

Drain-McLeod—That Secretary write the MacLaren Lumber Company, asking for a site for a nuisance ground.

Hinds-Brisco—That the council accept and pay to W. A. Malcolm the amount agreed upon for Lots 19 and 20, in Block 15. That the question of the site for the new fire hall and municipal building be submitted to the electors as to its location either on the Malcolm lots or on the "free site" on Victoria Street offered by the West Canadian Colliers.

Two of the councillors voted in favor of this motion and two against, and the mayor declared in favor.

This motion is very similar to a motion brought forward by Mr. Budd, when the fire hall question first came up for consideration. It was turned down at that time because there appeared no encouragement to locate Blairmore's fire hall or municipal building outside of the town.

None of the councillors at Monday night's meeting expressed themselves in favor of the idea of erecting a municipal building on the free site, and the idea does not seem to meet with the approval of any of the residents of the business section of the present registered town. The free site is outside the registered townsite, as well as being far away from the more densely populated section.

We believe that Blairmore will yet become the judicial centre of the Alberta section of the Crows' Nest Pass, and that if the town ever contemplated erecting judicial quarters, the chances of securing an appropriation from either the Provincial or Dominion government would be small were we to choose a site outside of the town's registration. The more central the site, the better chance we would have in getting assistance from the governments.

Blairmore has a most promising future, and we should consider the matter of our public buildings in a way to meet the requirements of some time to come, and a pretentious structure to contain court room, jail, law offices, post office, customs office, and fire fighting appliances would not be in advance of the times.

"The Prince of Tonight"

The "Sacramento Union" has the following to say of "The Prince of Tonight," which great musical comedy will be staged at the Blairmore opera house on the night of May the 28th:

"If tuneful music and pretty girls be conceded as sufficient to furnish an evening's amusement, 'The Prince of Tonight' is as pleasant a musical comedy as one could ask. Haunting melodies, not all of them new, abound in the play that pleased a fairly good house at the Clunie last night. Perhaps most tuneful of all the numbers was the male chorus 'Tonight Will Never Come Again.'"

Tom Arnold and Eva Carey made an excellent duo in the leading roles. Arnold being blessed with a fair voice and the feminine lead having both a good soprano and the personality to "get it across" all through the play.

Of plot the "Prince of Tonight" has nothing to boast, but nobody expects much plot in a musical show. A far fetched and fanciful idea permeates the comedy, in which a century plant blooms but once in a hundred years and causes considerable commotion when it does, figured strongly. Scenery and lighting effects were fully up to expectations and the attractions quite on a par with some of its predecessors, gave full value in entertainment.

"I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now," and other old favorites among musical comedy lovers were back again to remind us of the prince's first visit and the company as a whole was competent. "The Prince of Tonight" is good for a long time, yet.

A Siberian Exile

And the Charge That Came Later

By F. A. MITCHEL

Edwin Borden, after having graduated at a law school, suddenly found himself by inheritance in possession of a fortune. He resolved to put off the practice of his profession for a more congenial occupation—traveling. So he went to Europe and "did all countries, winding up with Russia."

After doing Warsaw, Moscow and St. Petersburg he concluded to go into the country and see something of Russian rural life.

One day while walking on the main street, or road, rather, running through a village, he saw what appeared to be a crowd in the distance moving toward him. When it came up he saw it was one of those processions of prisoners on their way to Siberia. First came a line of soldiers marching "route step," then criminals, politicians, men, women and some who were scarcely more than children. Among the latter was a girl of about eighteen. That she was a political was apparent from her features, which marked refinement, intellect and character.

To see any one in the strong arm of the law is sad, but to see a girl on the very threshold of life trudging along through snow, with armed men ready to shoot her if she attempts to get away, her destination the terrible mines at Kara, on the Arctic ocean, is enough to freeze the blood in one's heart. While Borden was looking at her she raised her eyes and met his, and so great was the sympathy between them that she returned it by an expression of gratitude. Borden would have walked on that he might continue to look at her, but the sight was too sad, and he feared to be considered intrusive, so he remained standing where he was till the melancholy procession passed, then, after a few moments, he disappeared, a dark spot on the white snow in the distance.

Borden went back to St. Petersburg, unable to recall the face and figure of the distressing sight of persons going to a doom far worse than death, and passed through the city, delaying only long enough to pick up baggage he had left there and be sure that his passport was in proper condition. Then he started on his way to a more congenial climate and a land with a less despotic government.

One thing he did not forget during the rest of his stay in Europe nor after his return to America—the face and figure of the convict girl on her way to Kara. He could not shake off the melancholy procession, especially the one person in it who had returned so pathetically his look of sympathy. He took an office, swung out his shingle as an attorney and tried to work, but clients were not to be had without an effort, and, having a fortune, there was little inducement for him to make it. However, he stayed in the city, and after a few days he gave up and returned to Europe.

Borden when abroad at times stopped at pensions instead of hotels, and the former he made acquaintances, while at the latter he usually passed his unoccupied time alone. One day on arriving at Paris he stopped at a pension at which he was accustomed to put up when in that city. That was the year the czar of Russia visited the French people and became their ally. Indeed, he had just arrived in Paris at this time. Borden had gone there to witness the festivities attending the monarch's reception. At dinner Borden sat opposite the entrance of the dining room and suddenly, looking up, was startled at seeing a woman enter whom he recognized at once as the girl convict he had seen on her way to Siberia.

But, oh, how changed! Instead of appearing as one just from her teens she looked as if she might be fifty. And instead of wearing the patient look of a martyr her face had become hardened. It seemed to Borden, perhaps because he knew something of her story, that she was thirsting for revenge.

On meeting his gaze she gave a slight start, but passed on without giving any other sign of recognition. He was alone and sat at one end of a table where there were no other diners. Her back was to Borden, so he could not see her face. He left the dining room before her and waited in the adjoining room, where he hoped to get another sight of her. While at dinner he had made a story to fit her case. "This was what he fancied:

She had suffered in the mines of Kara. She had joined hunger strikes. She had fallen under disease in the damp prisons and living upon unwholesome food. She had found an opportunity for escape. She had told her story to the emperor of Russia, who, she said, Sweden probably, where she had arrived hungry, frostbitten, nearly dead and alive. And now that she was free she was consumed by one all absorbing passion—revenge. And here the presence in Paris of the man who stood for all this wrecking, the emperor of Russia, furnished a climax.

She was there to kill him. The girl must have gone out by another door, probably to avoid him, as he appointed, he was about to go to his room when a servant approached him and handed him a bit of paper. Opening it, he read:

"May I ask that you will join me for a few minutes in my private parlor?"

"Most assuredly," were the words that came to him, but he did not speak them. He simply followed the servant, who led him to a door, knocked and left him. The door was thrown open, and before him stood the woman who had occupied his thoughts for two years. She shut the door behind him and stood for a moment as if striving for composure. Then she said in a low, steady voice, as if fearing to be overheard, "I have sent for you to ask you not to mention to any one having seen me on my way to Kara."

"I certainly will not mention it," Borden replied. "On the contrary, I shall do anything I can do for you."

"There is, Eugene, passage for me to America as your sister or some other relative."

"I will do so with pleasure. When do you wish to sail and from what port?"

"As to your first question, it depends on your second. Cheburek will probably be the best for me. Eugene, a room for the next steamer. If I am not ready to leave then I must take the next later."

"If I am to trust you it is but right that you should trust me. Tell me your story."

She did so, and he had been right in his surmises as far as they went. Her fate had made a madman of her father. Her brother had gone to Kara and had arranged for and effected her escape. But he was killed by the guards in doing so. Her mother had died of grief induced by the family misfortune.

"And now," said Borden after she had given a synopsis scarcely more detailed than the one she had given him, "you are here in Paris for revenge."

"That he had divined her secret was evident from the stare she gave him and had arranged for and effected her escape. But he was killed by the guards in doing so. Her mother had died of grief induced by the family misfortune."

"You are here to assassinate the czar?"

Whether it was that the danger, the horror of it, was suddenly revealed to her; whether it was that her secret had been so easily divined, causing her to realize that her design was impracticable, does not matter. Possibly she did not know herself; possibly it was a transfer of the burden she bore to one who sympathized with her. Her frame shook convulsively; then, throwing herself back in her chair, she gave a long, low wailing cry.

Borden deemed the last of these suppositions correct and permitted her to take her time to decline from being strong to the highest pitch to a normal relaxed state. Then, reaching forward, he took her hand in his and said:

"For two years you have never for a moment been free from the thought Heaven has sent me to befriended you. Let me bear your burden. This meeting has brought a change for us both. I see for you, if not a happy future, at least one of comparative comfort. Give up this mad design and let me help you, plan for you, that you may gradually throw off a terrible past and take on a more loving future."

Borden in telling the story added: "There is an undercurrent to this experience that no words can properly express. Yet without it my story would be like salt without savor. It was a transfer of the burden she bore to one who sympathized with her. Her frame shook convulsively; then, throwing herself back in her chair, she gave a long, low wailing cry."

But one thing I know—owing to this undercurrent of which I speak, taken with our meeting, she was brought to strong to the highest pitch to a normal relaxed state. Then, reaching forward, he took her hand in his and said:

HOW TO SAVE.

Hints For Fighting the High Cost of Living.

The problem of how to lighten the cost of high living is a vital one today, and especially is this question absorbing to the poor man's wife. Her household motto should surely be, "The best of everything." Her husband says, "Industry without art is brutality." And that is justly so of the homemaker. Her life is to make her home just as attractive as possible, and to do that she must keep in mind that a penny saved is a penny earned, and that every piece of food thrown out is money thrown away.

Here are four things that help much in lowering the cost of high living. They are bought in as large quantities as possible, thereby getting a reduction. Use things in season, when they are cheapest. When you price your shopping, use your common sense and household magazines for "eggless recipes."

Make a systematic collection of economical nutritious dishes. When eggs are high in making doughnuts and making a cold potato, beat it in with the sugar and make the doughnuts as usual without any eggs.

In making pumpkin or squash pies in place of eggs roll crackers and use a small amount of milk. If you would of eggs. You could not tell the difference if you did not know.

YOUR EASTER HAT.

Velvet Facings on the Newest and Smartest Shapes of the Season.

The young girls have a splendid sort of hats to choose their Easter bonnet from. At this time of year, of hats, seen are wide brimmed, with a slight flare on one side, while others have a decided roll all around, the under brim being of contrasting color, the extreme outer edge being covered with straw. Some of these hats have very little trimming. Some hats have only one large quill, which penetrates the brim on the left side. Three small bright red velvet bows are also used to trim the side crown on the left side from.

Another becoming shape for dress occasions has a wide brim, which droops slightly. The crown and upper brim are made of wide yelids. The under brim has a black velvet facing edged with knitted plaid valencienne lace.

A wide place of black velvet ribbon encircles the side crown and is finished at the left side back in a soft knot. The ends are drawn over the crown of the brim and tied again ten inches from the ends. One large red rose is secured to the right side front of the brim. THE SOUTH SEA BUBBLE.

Gigantic Swindle That Came Near to Wrecking the English Nation.

One of the most gigantic swindling schemes that was ever promulgated, a swindle that came very near wrecking the English nation, was the project known to history as the South Sea Bubble.

The great quick scheme was not only backed by the English Parliament, but also by the great financiers of the country and even royalty itself. The scheme was made to suffer, the poorer classes being unable to invest.

In 1711, principally through the instrumentality of Robert Harley, the Earl of Oxford, who was Lord Treasurer of England. His object was to improve public credit and to provide for the floating debts, which at that time amounted close to $30,000,000.

In return the company was to receive the right to monopolize the trade with Spanish South America.

Those days little was known of the continent of South America and generally the public had the idea that it consisted of a few islands.

It was expected that the people of that country would be as receptive to the scheme as the English nation were. The Indians in giving of valuable skins and furs for small quantities of rum and other goods.

When the first settlers came to Canada. For this reason the English nation was so much interested in buying stock in this company they would quickly reap untold profits.

Everyone who owned stock in the company sold it at $500, but speculation ran riot that they soon advanced to $2,500. Everyone who owned stock in the company sold it at $500, but speculation ran riot that they soon advanced to $2,500.

MABEL'S CITCHAT

The Woman Who's Determined to Please Too Much.

HOPELESS TO CHOKER OFF

Chafing Dish Set in Crash Tossing Is The Gift For Hostess Who Is Fond of Entertaining Informally at Supper or Luncheon.

Dear Eliza—I have just come back to New York from a week end spent with Margaret W., and I never leave her charming country house without the uncomfortable feeling that I have been extremely rude. Margaret is one of the few remaining specimens of politeness left to us in this rude, busy age. Indeed, she is so anxious to be nice and to please her guests that she forgets that she defeats her own good object by being too solicitous of their well being. In other words, she is one of those pressing people who make the average woman feel like "saying things" at times.

Here is an example of what I mean: "Well, it was all one of these cakes, dear?" she cried one afternoon at tea, her bright eyes falling on my empty plate.

"Thank you very much, but I've quite finished."

"Oh, but you must try one of these. They're homemade."

"Oh, no, they are delicious, but really—"

"Just one, now; just to please me."

So I was obliged to meekly despatch the first of them. I've forgotten to the last crumb Margaret began again.

"Now I'm sure you will have another."

"No, thank you, really, Margaret."

"Oh, do! I have not nearly finished yet. Do keep me company. Or perhaps you did not like my cake?"

"It was splendid!" I managed to reply, quite honestly, for Margaret is a fine cook. But, truly!

Stanley is off His Base

Readers of last week's issue of the Coleman Bulletin have had a fair opportunity of measuring up the character and worth of the individual who, in name only, is presiding over the destiny of that journal. Coleman has been rather unfortunate for some years past in the quality of editorial penmanship upon her otherwise respectable record. This last importation is no exception to the rule. Void of all common decency or principle, he needs no further eulogy as far as his depth of disgust is concerned, and we feel that without our assistance a level-headed people is capable of judging and awaiting his sure reward.

Powell is Superintendent Of Mine Rescue Car

W. B. Powell arrived from Lethbridge on Monday and will in future make Blairmore his headquarters as superintendent in charge of the mine rescue car. This car will be moved from point to point in this mining division, with a view to giving class lessons in mine rescue work at each of the different mines. Mr. Powell succeeds Mr. MacDonald, who has been transferred to Lethbridge to take charge of the mine rescue station there.

Robinson Abducts Girl

Chas. Robinson, colored, was arrested at Fernie Saturday night on a charge of abduction. It appears that Robinson had met a young girl named Jennie Galdes, an employee at Fernie hospital, some two months ago. She is of Slavonian parents who reside in Fernie and is not yet sixteen years of age. Yesterday morning Robinson obtained from the local government office a marriage certificate in which he stated the girl's age as twenty-one. They engaged the services of Rev. W. M. Walton of Christ church, and were subsequently married at the home of William Trollinger, a colored man. Trollinger and his wife were the only witnesses. In some way the news reached the mother of the girl, who swore out a warrant for the arrest of her new son-in-law. After considerable search he was found by Chief Hall and Sergeant Whelan at the home of Trollinger, who did not wish to allow the officers to enter his apartments. However, strong arguments were advanced by the chief, and the bridegroom was taken from bed and marched to the police station, where he is held awaiting developments.

Oddfellows Ninety-Fourth Anniversary

Blairmore Lodge No. 68, of the Independent Order of Oddfellows, turned out for their annual church parade on Sunday last. A large number of brethren of Coleman lodge, as well as the Coleman brass band, were also in attendance.

Divine service was conducted at the Central Baptist church, where the Rev. J. F. Hunter preached an able and appropriate sermon from the text James II-12—"So speak ye, and so do, as they that shall be judged by the law of liberty." The collection was taken up in aid of the Oddfellows' Home, one of the most worthy objects yet undertaken by any fraternal organization. The object of the Home is to provide for aged Oddfellows, deceased members' wives, and orphan children. The movement was started a few months ago. A site for the home was chosen in the province of Saskatchewan, which is considered central for western Canada, and already upwards of $4,000.00 has been subscribed to this most worthy cause. The collection at Coleman on the previous Sunday was devoted to this purpose, and we understand amounted to nearly $30.00. Last Sunday's collection was of a similar amount, and shows that Oddfellowship is alive to its principles in efforts of human beneficence.

Upon returning to the hall a great spread of luscious foods awaited the "capacious naws," and needless to say was suited to the tastes of everyone, even the unqualified manipulator of the three-pronged fork.

After-dinner speeches were next in order, the Noble Grand, R. C. Green, occupying the chair. The opening remarks were made by Rev. Bro. J. F. Hunter, P. G., followed by very pleasing remarks by the Rev. W. H. Muncester on behalf of the visitors, and lastly F. W. Doubt on behalf of the local organization. Miss A. Green delivered a lengthy and appropriate oration, which was plausibly received.

Those taking part in the supper numbered upwards of one hundred and twenty, and all spoke favorably of the manner in which the members of the refreshment committee did their part.

Owing to some misunderstanding, the Coleman Rebekah Lodge was not represented, but a goodly number of local and visiting Rebekahs and friends were in attendance. The members of the Crows' Nest Exemptant turned out in good force, it being their first appearance in patriarchal colors.

New Mines Act Is Now In Force

Edmonton, April 29.—The new Mines Act of Alberta is now in operation, and examinations to be held this month for certificates of competency will be the last to be held under the old act. The New Mines Act will be the first subject in the future examinations.

Examinations will be held at Frank, Bluff, Edmonton for managers May 20, 21 and 22; for pit bosses on May 20 and 21, and for fire bosses certificates on May 22 and 23.

The age limit for mine managers and pit bosses will be raised after this examination from 23 to 25. The new act also provides for a provincial board of examiners to consist of the Chief Inspector of Mines, or a district inspector appointed by him; two mine managers, and two miners, which may take the place of the district boards.

Crows' Nest Pass Football Fixtures

The fixtures for the Crows' Nest Pass football league have just been published. At the last league meeting it was found to be impossible to fix up a schedule satisfactory to all the teams comprising the league and an independent committee was appointed to draw up the schedule. Whether their work will appear satisfactory to all of not remains to be seen.

The following are the fixtures for the coming season:

The home team is placed first in the above list.

Throughout the Pass Bellevue is at the present time expected to win the honors this season. It is a well known fact that they have on their team several of the best known players in the Pass, as well as several dark horses, and speculation is rife as to what class of line-up they will eventually place on the field. Blairmore and Hillcrest are new additions to the Crows' Nest Pass league and their supporters hope great things from them. Both these teams boast some good players and both are confident of going right through the schedule, although they will both need all the financial support they can get to pull through. Coleman at the present is rather up against it for funds, but the public spirited men of the town are coming to their rescue and they anticipate little difficulty in this line when once the team gets going. - Hillcrest Correspondent.

Something That You Never Seen Nor Even Heard of

A PARISIAN NOVELTY.—In Europe it is used this year as a little Easter present or rather a mark of courtesy to friends and relatives. Its value has a token like those in the novel idea that in the price of the article. It is arranged so that it can be sent, just like post card, for a cent or two, to any place in Canada or the United States. The underlying idea about it, is the embedded luminousness, which will shine all night long (as in any dark room) in a glorious, mystic blue light, after you had it exposed to daylight for a few minutes; the price is so low that any one is enabled to be convinced of its real nature. It is indeed an article which is held in high esteem by any Christian family or person. The shining cross is made of a stone, which is found only near Jerusalem and of which already the Bible speaks of the luminous stone in picturing Salomo's temple.

Price are: 15 cents each, 2 for 25c, 5 for 50c and 12 for $1.00. A. Netkow, 832 Yonge St., Toronto, Ont. Sole agent for Canada and U.S.

A MESSAGE FOR THOSE WHO SUFFER
 MRS. E. J. TALBOT TELLS THEM TO FIND A CURE IN DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

She Had Rheumatism, Lumbago, and Neuralgia and Found the Remedy She Was Looking for in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Hamilton, Ont. (Special).—"I know there are a lot of people who suffer and do not know what will cure them. Dodd's Kidney Pills will."

These are the words of Mrs. E. J. Talbot who resides at 233 Wellington street, north, this city. And Mrs. Talbot speaks out of her own experience.

"Last July I was very sick," Mrs. Talbot continues. "My heart bothered me, my limbs were heavy, and I had a dragging sensation across the loins. Rheumatism, lumbago and neuralgia added to my sufferings, and the doctor I called in did not help me much."

"I finally decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I have used seven boxes and I am so much stronger and better that I feel I must recommend them to others."

Mrs. Talbot's complication of trouble all came from sick kidneys. That's why Dodd's Kidney Pills cured them. For Dodd's Kidney Pills are no cure-all. They simply cure kidney disease of any kind. They never fail to do that.

"The Only Cure for Piles"
 Writes Mr. Taylor in Telling His Experience With Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mr. M. Taylor.
 Because Dr. Chase's Ointment brings almost immediate relief from the dreadful itching, burning, stinging sensations of piles, it is well worth the attention of everyone suffering from this annoying disease.

In most cases, even after years of standing, Dr. Chase's Ointment makes a thorough and lasting cure of itching, bleeding and protruding piles. Mr. Maxwell Taylor, Charlotteville, P.E.I., writes: "To all sufferers from piles in any form I would recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment as the only cure. Over a year ago while in Bourgeois, I became afflicted with a dreadful itching. I went to a doctor, who gave me some ointment, which made me no better. A friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and the use of two boxes I was entirely cured. You may publish this statement in order that other sufferers may profit by my experience."

Dr. Chase's Ointment can better prove its value by the relief it affords than by all the words we could use in its praise. So come a box or two, feelers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

EX-SULTAN'S OPINION OF WOMEN
 Turkish Woman—His Ideal of What the Fair Sex Should be Like

Berlin, Germany.—Further interesting memoranda of Abdul Hamid, the present ex-sultan of Turkey, are published in the March number of Nord und Sud. By the courtesy of Professor Ludwig Stein, the editor, I am able to give the following extracts:

The memoirs deal principally with religious and moral questions. Abdul Hamid was in the habit every day during his long reign of dictating for some thirty minutes his private thoughts to Ali Bahadur Bey, and the present publication is taken from this work. The memoirs have been translated from the original into German by Herr Heinz Bohmer, the Turkish consul in Berlin. Speaking of the status of women, the ex-sultan says:

Every man who has sense will develop his country's women are given too much freedom, that they rule the salons, and are soon to walk about in the streets while men are slowly drifting to be their servants. I understand this is the case in America. Why do Europeans criticize our women? Are Turkish women not prettier and more moral than others?

In our country the woman belongs to the household, and belongs to one man alone. In Europe she has much too much freedom to remain a woman at all. If only half I have read in books and newspapers about womanhood in the west is true—well I pity the western man.

The former sultan appears to have been favorable to some reforms being introduced in Turkey, but these reforms, he says, must not be rushed on us. We want to go ahead, but haste is devilish, while leisure and afterthought are such the poison of European civilization. Beware of ideas that come from the west. They are most dangerous for our country. When I see how happy our Moslems are, I feel I must oppose with all my power the coming of the European new spirit. This spirit poisons our souls and our character. Islam is not unfavorable to progress, but any progress must come from within, not from without.

Dealing with the present conditions of Islam, Abdul Hamid states: "The Koran preaches virtue more effectively than any other religious work. Therefore Islam will in time be victorious in the whole world. Our troubles come from the fact that our empire does not constitute a religious unity. We have too many Christians in our empire. Only evil can be expected from the fact that more than one religion reigns in one country. Look what happens in Germany!"

The salvation of Turkey can only be in red religious belief. There lies our future. England, France, Russia are in my hands. One word from my lips will suffice to open a hole in the Turkish empire. Christian nations will see their doom. That time has not come yet, but it is bound to come when millions of brave Moslems will shake off the yoke of the Glorious—100,000 living in British India, 30,000,000 in Dutch colonies, etc. Two hundred and fifty millions pray every day for Allah and the Koran. Can one really think that the Moslem is a weak instrument in the contest of nations?

This rather bellicose statement is immediately followed by some thoughts about tolerance in Turkey, which, according to the ex-sultan's opinion, is far greater there than anywhere else. He bitterly criticizes the young effendis, who ensure everything that is done in Turkey. These young effendis are the worst enemies he says. Thanks to my secret police, I know exactly where they are. There is no slavery in my empire. A deharjah (maid servant) in Turkey is happier than a maid in Europe. Why curse the slave merchants? They only secure slavery for a certain time.

Many an abandoned child, dying of hunger in the street, has found his salvation at the hands of these so-called slave-merchants. Many girls have found good positions in families by this process, and some even have been married by parents.

Happenings in and Around Blairmore

Mike Rose returned to Edmonton on Sunday.

Thursday, May Day, was observed as a holiday.

Mrs. F. Simpson and children left last Friday for the coast.

The McLaren saw mill started operations Wednesday morning.

W. A. Freeburger came up from Lethbridge the early part of the week.

Rev. James Lang preached to the Oddfellows at Cowley on Sunday night.

L. Coates, sales manager, is conducting a big sale for R. M. Bisco.

John Knights, of the Calgary Brewery Company, was in town on Monday.

John T. Sterling, provincial mine inspector, was in town on Monday.

Southern Alberta's exhibition will be held at Lethbridge June 24th to 28th inclusive.

H. T. Lloyd, electrical engineer, came to town from Pocatongas the early part of the week.

A. J. Waite representing North Battleford real estate, has opened a branch business here.

J. C. Boudreau has returned to Frank from a several months' visit to eastern Canada.

W. A. Beebe has been down in Michigan state this week, in consultation with eye specialists.

L. Dutil and family have moved into the residence recently purchased from Thomas Frayer.

We are pleased to learn that Mrs. A. I. Blaie, of Frank, is fast recovering from her recent illness.

The Crow's Nest Pass Hardware Co., at Frank have gone into liquidation and closed their doors on Saturday last.

J. H. Lee left Wednesday morning for Vancouver, where he hopes to reside in future. Mrs. Lee will follow in a few weeks.

The Prince of Tonight will appear at the local opera house on the night of Wednesday, May 28th. Further announcements later.

M. Rose has moved his family to the new home in Edmonton, Mike is now catering to the bigger demand for booze at the capital.

The masquerade ball given at Hillcrest on Wednesday night was attended by a goodly number from Blairmore, all of whom voted the affair enjoyable.

Charley Robinson, the well-known heavyweight pugilist of the Crow's Nest Pass, put Ed. Ware, of Chicago, to sleep on Friday night last at Fernie.

Blairmore has been besieged by real estate agents and commercial travellers the past week. There is almost a need for a hotel specially for their accommodation.

The Women's Guild of the Presbyterian church will hold their first sale of work on Tuesday, May 30th, commencing at 2.30 p.m. Fuller announcement next week.

Young Ronalds and Dick Marshall fought a four round preliminary in connection with the big bout between Charlie Robinson and Ed. Ware at Fernie on Friday night.

M. J. King, who last week took over the management of the Alberta hotel, is making many improvements in and about the hotel and greatly to enhance the appearance.

On Sunday evening next, at 6 o'clock, a big goose supper will be served at the Alberta hotel in honor of the opening under new management. Come along and bring your friends.

Rumor is current to the effect that a popular young Blairmore clerk intends shortly to disband himself from the order of bachelors. The lucky lass is an accomplished graduate in the art of stenography.

Word was received of the death of Mrs. William Barret, mother of J. D. S. Barret, at her home in Twillingate, Newfoundland. Mrs. Barret underwent an operation last August for cancer, which operation proved futile.

Mr. Nerwich, who for the past year has edited the District Ledger at Fernie, has resigned to accept a more lucrative position of wider sphere down in Florida. We wish Editor Nerwich bon voyage and success in his new field.

H. J. Pozzi has just about completed the erection of another large kiln for the Frank Line Company. The new kiln is a creditable piece of work and necessitated over 600 cubic feet of stone work. It will be put in operation in about two weeks.

W. F. Stanley, the adopted baby of the Powellites of Coleman, was evidently weaned too soon. He is a wise urchin in his own estimation, but a down-and-out maniac in the estimation of those who have had occasion to glance at the recent issues of the Coleman Bulletin.

Rev. W. H. Muncester M. A., B. D., who is interim Moderator in the vacancy in the Pincher Creek Presbyterian congregation is to preach there next Sunday, and his place here will be taken by Rev. James Lang. Mr. Lang has recently been doing valuable service at Cowley and Lundbreck.

W. F. Stanley, of the Coleman Bulletin, passed through Blairmore on Sunday afternoon in charge of his owners. Some mode of transportation more speedy than the auto is desired by the good people of Coleman to convey W. F. Stanley back to the mammoth home of his origination.

Jean Schuur, who for the past several months has been managing the business of the Frank Co-operative Trading Company, has severed his connection with that establishment and accepted a position with a large coal storage company at Moose Jaw. Jean leaves this week for his new post.

Owing to stormy weather on the prairie, the May Day celebration which was to take place at Lethbridge had to be postponed indefinitely. The special excursion train which went out to Fernie on Wednesday for the purpose of conveying the thousands of excursionists to the prairie was called back.

Two meetings of the Presbyterian Women's Guild have been held at the homes of Mrs. R. Green and Mrs. J. M. Carter. Much progress has been made with the work for the forthcoming sale, which is to be held on Tuesday, May 20. The proceeds are to go towards the building of new church, school and manse.

We regret to learn of the death of Mr. Hagell, father of E. Hagell, of the Lethbridge News Job Department, which took place at the old home, Maidstone, Kent, England. Deceased was in his eightieth year and was a veteran of the Crimean war, serving through the campaign on H. M. S. Leander, and having medals for the Baltic, Inkerman and Sebastopol.

Rev. A. Barner, the new superintendent of Southern Alberta missions of the Methodist church,

Happenings in and Around Bellevue

Fred Parker, of Lethbridge, is visiting in town.

Edward Bridge was a Creston visitor on Sunday and Monday.

Police constable Ford, of Coleman, was a Bellevue visitor on Sunday.

Mrs. Enoch Williams, of Maple Leaf, is visiting in Coleman for a few days.

Bellevue looked sanctimonious last Thursday with three Methodist preachers in the town. One is about all that we can stand.

Fred Lund and Eric Hagg drew their time last week and went on an extended trip to Europe. While over the road they will visit their old homes in Sweden.

Ernest Deamont is filling the corner recently vacated by Bert Jossell as tonorial artist. Mr. Deamont comes from Calgary and promises to make good at the trade here.

The Rambler's Club held a paper chase on Thursday evening last. Andrew Jackson and Arthur Varley were the horses and laid the trail in the woods north of Maple Leaf and Passburg.

Bills are out announcing a big fifteen-round boxing match to be staged in the Socialist Hall on Saturday, the 17th. The parties to the main bout are Young Manley and Jack Morrison.

The girls' sewing class at the local church entertained the Rambler's Club at a supper on Tuesday evening. After supper a unique programme took place and all the kiddies enjoyed themselves to the limit.

William Gallimore moved up from Fernie on Wednesday evening and secured a position at No. 2 mine. Mr. Gallimore is a splendid singer and bandman, and will be quite an addition to musical circles here.

Bellevue's new football field was initiated on Saturday evening, with a game between two pick-up teams. The boys showed up well and things are looking like some more silverware for Bellevue next fall. Notwithstanding the chilly weather, quite a number witnessed the game.

The Bellevue band, accompanied by a large crowd of sympathizers, attended the funeral of their comrades who were killed at Fernie mine last week. The unfortunate men had many friends in Bellevue, and as they were both good bandmen they were close friends of many of our local musical talent.

will be at Hillcrest on the night of Wednesday, May 7th, and will be one of the speakers at the banquet to be given in Hillcrest on that night. Mr. Barner was for a time principal of the Indian industrial school at Red Deer and is a very fluent and interesting speaker.

Andy Goode, of the Summit Hotel, Crow's Nest, was in town on Tuesday. Andy is endeavoring to dispose of his hotel property to satisfy a chattel mortgage. The Summit Hotel, situated as it is immediately on the boundary line between the provinces of Alberta and British Columbia, is one of the most ideal locations for a tourist resort in the Rocky Mountains. There is no scenery in the whole famous Rocky range which surpasses that at Crow's Nest, where the variation of scenery from the monarchical snow-capped heights to the richest verdant plains and suburban lakes are the most predominant masterpieces of Nature.

Burnis Notes

The Order of Gussuks met this week, the President speaking warmly of the efforts made by the brethren to secure adequate and business like administration in the Provincial Parliament.

The battle he proceeded, has been a great one and so far as this district is concerned, has been well fought, but one always finds in the trail of well fought and honorably conducted campaigns the muckrakers, thieves, vagabonds and a class of bipeds who have no honor, to whom a rifle shot is too good and honorable a death.

Civilization uplifts and also demoralizes. Laws formed to protect the weaker are made the buttresses for the sneak and low bred crew and thus we find perambulating imitations of mankind side by side with the nobler caste. That we do not adequately recognize this section is evidenced daily; they express similar sentiments and openly behave themselves in worthy manner but when times of danger come around who are they who do the gun-running, give away the secrets of their country for a consideration and make capital out of confidence? We know the class alright but unfortunately these specific individuals are only located after the crisis has passed. We have just come through a political battle wherein the pen is mightier than the sword; where the battles are set out in the press, where the editor can either mislead his followers in thought or conduct them in the proper channels of truth, he occupies the virtual position of Leader. The muckrakers come afterwards just as the Editor of the Coleman Bulletin has done in the course of his "pickings," has the temerity to make mention of so worthy an institution as the Order of the Gussuks in a more or less derisive manner.

About this individual we don't care to waste either thought or breath, it is impossible that a person of his calibre can be a Britisher or even a white man of any kind. His literary vandalism is a stench in the nostrils of mankind and his existence a disgrace. We pass him up with a word of advice from this institution, which is always ready to put the crooked straight if possible, to follow his heretofore Divine Conception for the representative of the people, Powell, into oblivition, it will be more manly than commencing journalistic fe-lo-de-se.

The election is over, the final results are out and we at Burnis rest contented in the knowledge that we did our share at the Poll; voting for the only man capable of holding the position and leaving the support of the odd man out to visitors.

Jas. Dougall getting unduly excited the other day laid information against Charlie Schrider for being drunk and disorderly. It appears that there had been some dispute over a buggy lent by Charlie to the company and that in settling up with the stable boss a friendly "touch" was indulged in Charlie being left high and dry somewhere around the stable to be subsequently discovered by James Magistrate Hamilton adjudicated and Charlie dug up $5.00 and costs.

Louis Angelo sold his buggy and harness to Sam Fisher and now we expect to see him purchase an auto.

Bill Mudry was sent down to the cooler for a month to reflect on the stand in he had with the Elfton government by which he gets free board and a government job. He was engrossed in watching a keg of beer when a back slider from the ways of honesty attempted to steal it. Bill found it incumbent on himself to take umbrage with the result that a broken head was given out into meles. A regular "Rushing Easter."
